

IN THE CLAIMS:

1-16. (Canceled)

17-27. (Cancel)

28. (Currently Amended) A method of selecting a region of a dental restoration body depicted as a 3D representation, in which to said selected region regional boundaries are assigned which are, at least in part, in the form of dentally specific lines, comprising a computer aided design system that includes a computer having a memory and software in said memory which enables selecting which selects a dentally specific line or a dentally specific point or a preparation border (4) associated with said region.